

European Fellows

Article published on Optician online, 20 May 2011

<http://www.opticianonline.net/Articles/2011/05/20/27675/European+fellows.html>

The screenshot shows the Optician website interface. At the top left is the 'Optician' logo. To its right is a search bar with the text 'Search for:' and a 'SEARCH ME' button. Below the search bar are radio buttons for 'Optician' (selected) and 'The Web', and a link for 'Advanced Search'. On the left side is a vertical navigation menu with links: Home, News, Features, Bookstore, Downloads, Advanced Search, Directory, Continuing Education, Jobs, Events, Links, Forums, Subscribe, Advertise, and CET Login/Logout. The main content area features a 'GUESS' advertisement with a woman's face and a pair of glasses. Below the ad is the 'News' section with the heading 'European fellows' and a date of '20 May 2011'. A photograph shows a group of eight people in professional attire. Below the photo is a caption: 'The chief executive of the College of Optometrists, Bryony Pawinska (third from right), and the Association of Optometrists' education adviser Karen Sparrow (second from left) were awarded fellowships by the European Academy of Optometry and Optics at its third conference in Prague.' To the right of the main content are three promotional boxes: 'EMAIL NEWSLETTER' with a sign-up link, 'BUY OPTICIAN' with a magazine cover image, and 'LATEST ARTICLES' listing 'Lens file: Proclear Multifocal Toric', 'Children and teenagers can CLs be part of their world?', 'Journey of life', and 'C16442 Dry eyes -'. A black rectangular redaction box is located at the bottom center of the page.

European Fellows

The chief executive of the College of Optometrists, Bryony Pawinska (third from right), and the Association of Optometrists' education adviser Karen Sparrow (second from left) were awarded fellowships by the European Academy of Optometry and Optics at its third conference in Prague.

They were among eight new fellowships at the conference (May 6-8) with Pawinska's award made for her role in developing the European Academy and the optometric profession. Sparrow's award recognised her contribution to Vision Aid Overseas and for her work to enhance the delivery and quality of optometric care in the UK and overseas.

Over 220 delegates from over 20 countries attended the event which saw professor Roger Crelier take over from Dr Feike Grit as president of the European Academy and Dr Paul Murphy of Cardiff University was chosen to become president-elect.